Are you worried about this? Perhaps there is some good news; so check things out for yourself!

Well done!

You're brave enough to dare to check some history.

‘Unprecedented’ droughts/fires/floods/heatwaves/blizzards!

But there are many people who have made up their minds, accepted this propaganda, and refuse to look at REAL history.

That's their loss! Sad

The information that follows being a perceived threat by global warming alarmists has caused much of what follows to be removed. It is presently being restored – bit by bit – so many links might not work.

There is technology that will produce infinite 'carbon [sic] emissions'- free electricity.
(So even if you do continue to worry about atmospheric CO₂ levels, your 'problem' can be solved.)

But now, it's time to check some REAL climate history.

He has 'done his homework'! [DO NOTE HIS QUALIFICATIONS!]

Here's how Tony assembles the videos that you will see: All are based on REAL data records – and NOT manipulated to produce phony results. And everything is backed up by old newspaper/magazine reports!

Mark Twain
American author and humorist
1835 – 1902

“If you don't read the newspaper, you are uninformed. If you do read the newspaper, you are misinformed.”

This famous quotation applies to so many sensational alarmist stories today.

Do you think that newspaper reports from years ago LIED in their reporting to support today's alarming stories? If you think that, then enjoy your panic!

But if you would like to know how Tony Heller does it, then watch this video of an interview with Tony. (Link on Mark Twain.) And then enjoy what follows.

And now here's just a "little" example of Tony Heller's research.

You will get some idea that Tony uses FACTS & VERIFIABLE history, & NOT 'academic' FANTASY to achieve a POLITICAL/FINANCIAL - objective!

Just look! These are lot of reports of weather that occurred when atmospheric CO₂ levels were BELOW 350ppm.

And what is 'Trove'? It's a facility that lets you research/look at old newspaper reports going back a long time - so when someone today says that a weather event is 'UNPRECEDENTED' you should probably say "Oh! Really?!"

(Link on the logo for lots of reports going back to the 18th century!)

And now

Let's go back to the 'official' launch of 'global warming' with 'climate expert' James Hansen's presentation to the U.S. Congress in 1988.

Some history to check! Oh look! 'Creating some heat' to fool the gullible?

one would you trust?

THE FIRST FLEET IN SYDNEY COVE, JANUARY 27, 1788

An Oil Painting by John Abbott.

The First Fleet, in command of Captain Arthur Phillip, R.N., sailed from England in May, 1787. Phillip, in the armed tender Supply (a brig), arrived at Botany Bay on January 18, 1788, and the other ships on the 19th and 20th. Botany proving a desolate waste, Phillip set out with three longboats on the 21st for Port Jackson, which Captain Cook had sailed past 18 years before. The 21st is thus a romantic and historic date. On that day 150 years ago white men made the voyage of the Heads for the first time. Aborigines were on the cliffs crying "Warral! Warral!" ("Where! Where! Begone!"). Entrapped by the wonderful harbour, Phillip rejoined his Fleet. On the 25th he returned in the Supply to Port Jackson. On the 26th the rest of the Fleet followed. Some of them anchored in the stream, but on the 27th all moved into Sydney Cove. Our picture shows—from an elevated point—the Fleet on that day. All included, about 1163 people came with the Fleet, and were concerned in the birth of British settlement in Australia. . . . Details of Picture: In the left corner is the site of Fort Macquarie, and top left the Tank Stream flowing into the Cove. The Rocks were commanded the landscape with its extreme right extending towards Devon Point. Over the heights in Great Island—with Balmain beyond—facing King's Head, across the stream. In the little bay beyond the Sails is the site of Fleet's Wharf. . . . A diagram naming each ship is on another page.

U.N. Predicts Disaster if Global Warming Not Checked

PETER JAMES SPIELMANN June 29, 1989

UNITED NATIONS (AP) – A senior U.N. environmental official says entire nations could be wiped off the face of the Earth by rising sea levels if the global warming trend is not reversed by the year 2000.

Coastal flooding and crop failures would create an exodus of "eco-refugees," threatening political chaos, said Noel Brown, director of the New York office of the U.N. Environment Program, or UNEP.

He said governments have a 10-year window of opportunity to solve the greenhouse effect before it goes beyond human control.

As the warming melts polar icecaps, ocean levels will rise by up to three feet, enough to cover the Maldives and other flat island nations, Brown told The Associated Press in an interview on Wednesday.

“The case against science is straightforward: much of the scientific literature, perhaps half, may simply be untrue. Afflicted by studies with small sample sizes, tiny effects, invalid exploratory analyses, and flagrant conflicts of interest, together with an obsession for pursuing fashionable trends of dubious importance, science has taken a turn towards darkness”

So, by now, you will know that there never has been any extreme weather in the past; and that everything today is caused by the burning of 'fossil [sic] fuels'!

THE OBSERVER, JULY 18, 1852.

STATISTICS OF HOT SUMMERS.

The excessive heat which prevails at present (says a Paris paper) gives some interest to the following account of remarkably hot summers:—"In 1132 the earth opened, and the rivers and springs disappeared in Alsace. The Rhine was dried up. In 1152 the heat was so great that eggs were cooked in the sand. In 1160, at the battle of Bela, a great number of soldiers died from the heat. In 1276 and 1277, in France, there was an absolute failure of the crops of grass and oats. In 1303 and 1304, the Seine, the Loire, the Rhine, and the Danube, were passed over dry-footed. In 1393 and 1394, great numbers of animals fell dead, and the crops were scorched up. In 1440 the heat was excessive. In 1538, 1539, 1540, 1541, the rivers were almost entirely dried up. In 1556 there was a great drought over all Europe. In 1615 and 1616, the heat was overwhelming in France, Italy, and the Netherlands. In 1646 there were fifty-eight consecutive days of excessive heat. In 1678 excessive heat. The same was the case in the first three years of the 18th century. In 1718 it did not rain once from the month of April to the month of October. The crops were burnt up; the rivers were dried up, and the theatres were closed by decree of the Lieutenant of Police. The thermometer marked 36 degrees Réaumur (113 of Fahrenheit). In gardens which were watered, fruit trees flowered twice. In 1723 and 1734, the heat was extreme. In 1746, summer very hot and very dry, which absolutely calcined the crops. During several months no rain fell. In 1748, 1754, 1760, 1767, 1778, and 1788, the heat was excessive. In 1811, the year of the celebrated comet, the summer was very warm and the wine delicious, even at Suresnes. In 1818 the theatres remained closed for nearly a month, owing to the heat. The maximum heat was 35 degrees (110.75 Fahrenheit.) In 1830, whilst fighting was going on on the 27th, 28th, and 29th July, the thermometer marked 36 degrees centigrade (97.75 Fahrenheit). In 1832, in the insurrection of the 5th and 6th of June, the thermometer marked 35 degrees centigrade. In 1835 the Seine was almost dried up. In 1850, in the month of June, on the second appearance of the cholera, the thermometer marked 34 degrees centigrade. The highest temperature which man can support for a certain time varies from 40 to 45 degrees (104 to 113 of Fahrenheit.) Frequent accidents, however, occur at a less elevated temperature."
